

Maria Andrianaki

Women Back to Business Success Story

We are delighted to present another WBB success story! Maria Andrianaki completed the WBB Programme in June 2021, having joined because she believed that “after a career break it was the perfect programme that will give me the skills to find a job in the corporate world”.

Maria is an Environmental Engineer and Modeller, committed to a more sustainable world. At the time of joining the programme, she had had a career break of almost six years to raise her children, while previously having worked as a postdoctoral researcher for ETH, Zürich and as a researcher for the University of Bristol.

She found the programme very helpful, while at the same time challenging her to get out of her comfort zone: “the WBB programme was a carefully designed journey that gave me my confidence back, reminded me what I am capable of and guided me through finally finding a job.”

Today, a Risk Modeller for Swiss Re, she has the opportunity to put her experience and skills into practice and have a positive impact. She would encourage every woman who wants to reboot her career “to attend an Info Event and meet and speak with the WBB people. After that I am sure she will make the right choice for her!”.

Maria Andrianaki
Risk Modeller at Swiss Re

«The WBB programme was a carefully designed journey that gave me my confidence back, reminded me what I am capable of and guided me through finally finding a job.»

University of St. Gallen

Executive School of Management,
Technology and Law